

Humanity in Action Fellowships

The Humanity in Action Foundation is devoted to the study and betterment of human rights and specifically the relationship between majority and minority populations. The Foundation sponsors an integrated set of educational programs for university students and post-graduates in America, Denmark, Germany and The Netherlands. Humanity in Action seeks applicants from all backgrounds and selects its Fellows on the basis of leadership potential, academic achievement, the willingness to work with others, interest in minority issues in Europe and America, and concern for human rights. Eligibility: any matriculated undergraduate who is a sophomore, junior or senior at an accredited, four-year college or university in the United States, irrespective of the applicant's nationality.
