

Writing Resources

Writing Reference Books and Handouts

The Writing Center has a small collection of writing and communication handbooks, located in our Daniels Hall office. If you would like to peruse our collection, just ask the writing tutor on duty.

Helpful Writer's Tools

These websites and resources can help you with common questions and issues when writing.

- Advice on Personal Statements and Essays
- Roget's Thesaurus
- Typical Mistakes that Non-native Speakers of English Make When Writing Scientific Documents \(PDF\)
- University of Wisconsin Writing Center
- Writing Resources from the University of Purdue

- Creating Scientific Posters and Giving Presentations

Documentation Links

- Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers Style Manual
- Style converter \(MLA, APA, Chicago\)

General Online Education Resources

- The Gutenberg E-Text Home Page

Want to Pursue Writing more Deeply?

WPI offers an interdisciplinary degree in Professional Writing. The goal of the Professional Writing program is to prepare communication professionals who can bridge the gap between scientists and engineers and the public by presenting technical information in useful and accessible ways. For more information about this program, contact Professor Kevin Lewis.