

Pulliam Journalism Fellowship

The Fellowships are for work and study. Fellows are assigned to The Indianapolis Star or The Arizona Republic. They will work as reporters, editorial writers or copy editors, depending on their areas of interest and experience. Each Fellow will receive a cash grant, one-third of which will be paid before the Fellowship begins. The remainder of the stipend will be disbursed during the course of the Fellowships. Fellows will participate in group and individual sessions conducted by a writing coach. They also will meet with guest and staff lecturers for informal discussion on their careers and issues in journalism.
