Community Spotlight: Shavaun Cloran, WPI Registered Dietitian

Ask any student what the most important part of their college experience is, and there's a good chance that "the food" will be tops on that list. Shavaun Cloran, WPI's registered dietitian, is one of the team members responsible for coming up with a healthy yet delicious daily menu for a diverse community that also takes serious food allergies and dietary restrictions into consideration.

Commitment to Sustainability

WPI is serious about our responsibility to our community and the world. In our dining facilities, we use cage-free eggs, seek out initiatives to minimize food waste (such as Project Clean Plate), donate food waste to local pig farms, and use earth friendly dining vessels--all in addition to our paper and plastic recycling efforts.
